Purpose

The purpose of this game is to get an impression of the lifestyle, wishes, and future expectations of people with intellectual disabilities. By the same token, the game can provide insight into the issues that are current for adults or youths.

The game can be played between two people as well as in groups.

Contents:

- 100 cards
- The Quartet game consists of 25 different categories (4 cards for each category)

Possible ways of playing

- Decide beforehand which cards you want to use.
  - You can play the game as a real Quartet game (Go Fish, Happy Families), but the cards can also be used separately to start a discussion with each other.
  - Lay the cards open on the table and let the person with an intellectual disability select a card from each category that appeals to her/him.
  - Of course you can also just give a card to a client and start discussing it.
  - Or every play chooses a card for someone else and tells why she/he thinks the card is or is not suited for that person.
- There are of course many other ways of playing the game. Let this game inspire you and be an instrument to generate conversation.
